o'eleck. Our Washington Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, May 5, 1856. ice Called on to Protect the Catholic Church in Mexico-The French Minister at Mexico the Special Protector of the Pope's Nuncto—The Complication in our Foreign Relations—The Effect on American Politics, &c., &c.

A new complication has taken place in our foreign relaone, involving not on'y the question of peace or war word, but of political confusion at home. France has the property of the Catholic church lately seized by Preonfort. Whether Louis Napoleon will accept the call, and step forward as the defender of the churc in Mexico, is a question no man can answer. That it affords him an excellent chance of extending his power, and giving vent to the restless military element of the empire, is evident. Such a course would also bring to his support the power of Rome—s power just as essential for the stability of his dynasty as was the alliance with England necessary to his legitimacy.

It is a very serious consideration how far England has Regiand necessary to his legitimacy.

It is a very serious consideration how far England has committed herself to France, and to what extent Napoleou can influence public affairs across the Channel. If England is best on sustaining her claims in Central America, and France determines to protect the rights of the Catholic church in Mexico, the "Western policy" so frequently alluded to by Napoleon may soon become a reality, and we may be called upon to face these two great Powers, single handed. Spain would not let such an epportunity escape her, of joining in a contest for which she would have a particular relish. An Englishman must always have some one to look down upon, and some one to look up to; and being on his knees now to France, John Bull necessarily inclines to a fight with semebody. France must war upon other people, or on herrelf. The element exists perpetually, and it is a matter of policy to keep it out of the government. If a Spaniard is remarkable for anything more than his own self-conceit, it is the cuntempt he entertains for other people. Spain deems it her duty and destiny to sweep American republicanism, and our free press, free specth and Protestant Bible from the face of the earth. These three nations have a common interest in making a common cause against us. Cuba, Central America, Mexico, what a complication have we here! And it is now almost certain that Louis Napoleon will lead off on the Catholic question. The French Minister at Mexico, some time since was designated as the protector of the Pope's Nuncio, accompanied by special instructions from Paris.

ter of the Pope's Nuncie, accompanied by special instructions from Paris.

The refinal of cur government to resist the attitude of France, would give an impulse to the Protestant feeling of the country, which would strengthen greatly the Know Nothirg party. On the other hand a different course, besides the complication of our foreign relations, would necessarily excite the Catholic mind all over the country. Napoleon always acts suddenly, and there is no telling when this question may enter the arena of polities. Spain would join him, and England be forced and a hostile attitude on the Central American question.

That the call on France has been made is well known.

A few weeks will show if your correspondent's information is correct.

Trial of Steam Fire Engines in the Park Quite a large crowd assembled in the Park yesterday ming, to witness the trial between the rival steam ragines, which had been advertised to take place for some seeks previously. The trial was to decide the award of offered by the city, as follows:-$500 for the best orking model, $300 for the next best, and $200 for the third best. The following engines were entered:-Lee & Larned, New York, full size model rotary pump. Lee & Larned, do., small model reciprocating pump. James Smith, do., small model. W. C. & J. S. Burnhaw, Yorkville, small model.

The Committee of the Board of Councilmen, before whom the trial progressed, were John H. Brady, John Kennard, George Merritt, John Baulch and Jacob L.

ald give a correct description themselves, they invited a number of the best known engineers attached to the arge steam works throughout the city, to assist them in forming a proper judgment, and several of them were on the ground. Fire Marshal Baker, Chief Carson and other well known members of the Fire Department were also

Lee & Larned's engine has already been partially deand the boilers are so constructed that a very large surface is exposed to the action of the flame and thus steam is generated in a very little time. This is done by means of a coil of tubes contained within a coil of larger tubes, the annular spaces being filled with wa-ter, with a same inside the inner tube and outside the outer one; thus converting the water into steam at short notice. This engine is to be of six horse power, Mr. James Smith entered a small model, a two inch and a half cylinder engine, of about a third horse power, with a separate tubular boiler. It was three feet high and two in diameter, of simple construction; pump and cylinder working in a line with one piston rod, with a stroke of four and a half inches. Diameter of steam cylinder, two and a half inches; of pump, two inches. Its peculiarity consists in a spring to throw the valve open, and its great merit was its simplicity of construction.

Burnham's ergine was an upright tabular boiler, thirty-two inches diameter, seven feet high, and had two engines and two pumps, working vertically on the side of the boiler. Pump and engine has a stroke of seven and three quarter inches. This was about eight horse power, and its cylinder seems disproportionably large, compared with the boiler. It is rated at eight

All the engines being declared in readiness, the signal was given, and at 11:45 A. M. the boilers were fired up. The water began to spout as follows:-

thin stream sixty-five feet.

Burnham's, with a three-quarter inch nozzle, threw 125 feet from fifty feet of hose. The inventor of this model claims that, with an engine of 7,000 pounds, they could throw 110 feet through a three inch nozzie, which would be a tremendous stream of water.

Lee & Larned's succeeded in throwing 185 feet through a one and one eighth inch nozzle, and 150 feet through a one and one-sixteenth inch nozzle. This was effected by holding them up at an angle of forty-five degrees. Pointed

Nothing occurred to mer the interest of the occasion, though the trial was not deemed satisfactory, owing to the smallness of the models on trial, which disappointed the crowd. There is no doubt but that steam engines could be brought into play with very fine effect in large fires, as the stream of water is so continuous as to bid defiance to anything a hand engine could effect, and no doubt but that they will be very generally used even-tually. The time taken to start the fire is of course the great difficulty, and will interfers with their being brought immediately into use for small confiagrations. The committee reserved their decision as to the award of premiums, which, no doubt, will be decided to-day. GLEE AND MADRIGAL UNION.-The lovers of good old English music should not fail to attend the third concer of the Glee and Madrigal Union, at Hope Chapel, to might. The programme is capitally selected, and the vo-calists, Mrs. Georgiana Stuart Leach, Miss Maria Leach, Mr. Frazer and Mr. Stephen W. Leach, are perfectly competent for the task of performing it.

BOWERY THEATRE.-Mr. Glenn, a young actor of promise, has a benefit to night. The bill is good, and the house should resemble it.

Pur to sell the property for the benefit of the plaintiff. Pursuant to advertisement the receiver proceeded this morning to put up at anction in front of the City Hall, the property in question. The title of Mr. Curtis Judson in the New York Hotel was put up, the first bid being $50, gradually rising by fitties, until it was about to be knocked down to Judge Whiting for the sum of $3,150. The hammar was, however, suddenly stopped by one of the Sheriff's deputies, who came forward to the auctionser and served him with a copy of an injunction which had just been issued by Judge Slosson restraining the sale until the further order of the Court. The numerous concourse of persons who had assembled then separated.
